But, when all else fails There is a way to disable the programmatic access warning in Outlook 2007 and up.

1. outlook standalone
2. outlook standalone installer
3. outlook standalone calendar

Note that these settings apply to access to the Outlook Object Model, access to Outlook has its own registry key.. We highly recommend you use up-to-date antivirus software that Outlook can detect and leave these settings alone.. Please note that the advice on this page reduces Outlook's security level and could leave you open to an exploit that takes over Outlook and sends mail on your behalf.
